Human Resources are the basic asset for any organization. This course demonstrates the effective utilization of people for achieving organizational goals. The program would provide an insight into various functions and responsibilities of the HR professional, for example, recruitment, team building, career development & change management.

The course would be full of discussion & exercise groups.

Objectives:

- To provide an introduction to H.R. Management for line managers with H.R. responsibilities or to people newly appointed to an H.,R. Role.
- To develop skills in interviewing and selection, managing appraisals and staff coaching and counseling.
- To understand how H.R. systems such as job grading, personnel records and grievance and disciplinary systems operate.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

The programme is ideally suited to individuals who are fairly new to the HR function and would benefit from a broad view of all key aspects. Individuals with HR experience can also benefit as the variety of subjects covered help to re-focus individuals with their work objectives.
